Parent Council Meeting

There were quite a few responses to the Facebook poll about when to hold a Parent Council Meeting. The majority voted that the preference would be for an evening meeting. I will look to organise one for after February half term holiday.

Teaching and Learning at Hartwell Primary School

On Monday of this week we had an external review of the quality of Teaching and Learning at our school. Two reviewers from the Inspire Teaching School Alliance (of which we are a member) spent the day with us looking at teaching, talking with children and staff, looking at children's work and meeting with senior leaders in school.

We are still awaiting the final report, however I do have an overview of the feedback. In summary Teaching and Learning is of a high quality at our school and this is matched by the attention to care and the welfare of our children.

The review highlighted that the teachers at our school have expert knowledge of the subjects they teach and demonstrate high levels of commitment to every child in their care. The children spoke openly and honestly to our visitors explaining how we do things at Hartwell, showing the team that they are keen and committed learners.

I would personally like to thank the children and the staff for sharing just a normal day at Hartwell Primary School - I continue to love being part of our team.
